

Meet your Coach.

David is known for his ability to ask the challenging question, create the conditions for insight, and do so without feeling like the sky is falling.

David Ogle

David's passion for coaching ignited during his career in Organization Leadership Development. With 15 years of experience, he blends his expertise in psychology, neuroscience, and coaching to guide individuals and teams toward achieving peak performance.

He is a Certified Organizational Coach, StandOut Strengths Coach, and Certified Brain Based Coach, holding the designation of Professional Certified Coach (PCC) with over 2,500 direct coaching hours. He also teaches and supervises learner coaches at The University of British Columbia.

Beyond Executive Coaching, David is a Chartered Professional Coach with the Coaching Association of Canada and received the Petro-Can Coaching Excellence Award in 2025. He was the Head Coach for Team Canada Weightlifting at the Paris 2025 Olympic Games, leading the team to a silver medal.

He is passionate about finding the common threads between high performance and business. In all areas of life, he is known for his ability to ask challenging questions, create the conditions for insight, and do so with a calming presence.
